Gets the Next Convention of the Catholic Educational Association.

Receive Cordial Message and Greetings and Blessing of Holy Father.

Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan Is President For Another Term.

A STRONG EXECUTIVE BOARD

The Executive Board of the Catholic Educational Association held its regular meeting at the close of the convention on Thursday afternoon, June 28. By unanimous vote it was decided to hold the fifteenth annual meeting of the association in the month of July in San Francisco, Cal. A number of invitations were considered, but as Archbishop Hanna had extended an invitation to two of the most important of the previous meetings of the association on account of distance, it was deemed most appropriate to hold the next meeting in the Far West. The successful meetings of the association was that held in New Orleans in 1913, and it is the belief of all that not only will the next meeting bring the strength of the Pacific coast to the association, but it will also be a most valuable and important meeting. There is no doubt of its success.

The Executive Board also directed that a committee of nine should be chosen who would be requested to study the problem of the curriculum in its general and specific aspects. This committee will be deferred until the fall.

The association sent a cablegram to the Holy Father at the opening of the convention and received a most cordial message from Cardinal Gasparri conveying the greetings of the Holy Father and imparting his apostolic benediction.

SUCCESS ATTEND THEM.

That a second contingent of American troops have landed in France has been made known through censored press dispatches. Nothing was said about the landing of the first contingent, not about the number landed. It is stated, however, that all the troops landed are regulars and comprise the division which President Wilson directed to proceed to France "at the earliest possible time." In formation of what other troop movements may be made is surrounded by censorship to insure, so far as possible, a safe voyage through the submarine zone.

It is not permissible to say what precautions were taken to get the American troop ships past the waiting German submarines, but there is no doubt that the precautions were carefully worked out because it is generally believed that some time ago most of the German submarine fleet was withdrawn from its attacks on commercial shipping to make it ready to smother the American troop ships in force.

The censor has granted permission to say that these troops are part of the force which will be under command of Major Gen. Pershing and for whose arrival the General and his staff have been arranging. The American troops will be an entirely independent command, just as are the British troops, working of course with the French at the head of operations, as they are on French soil. When the troops had their period of preparation behind the lines, they will take a place on the battle front and probably very soon will be carrying the Stars and Stripes in the fighting on the western front. This is the first time that the troops have appeared at the head of a fighting force in Europe. It marks a new departure in American history. We are now fairly into the war. May success attend our army on the fields of France!

WHO THEY ARE.

Editor Kentucky Irish American. Louisville, July 4.—Perhaps the following may be a piece of information for the readers of your paper, as it was for me. Sunday a week ago in his sermon Father Benson said that he was a Catholic and a day communicant. One-half of our navy are Catholics, nine-twenty-fourths of our army are Catholics, and reduced his fractions to their lowest terms in comparing other denominations. He said: "Some of you may not know this, and I tell it to you for your own information that you may shove it down the throats of so many Catholics are not hiding, and why? Because only the pure of soul and clean heart can face battle. He recommended a daily prayer for those torn and shot to pieces in battle with no one near to help them."

When he said "running and hiding" he recalled your comment of Friday day that the Catholic A. P. A.'s in line of march. When I saw the scrawny crowd with their little flags over their shoulders I said in my heart, "Yes, that is the extent of your patriotism—carrying that five-cent flag." I had a good-minded, Christian, non-Catholic lady with me in Central Park that day. When she read on their caps A. U. M., Junior O. U. M., she said who are they, what are they? I told her in clear enough tones for those near to hear: "They are A. P. A.'s, a disguised name, which may be known by their right name." She said she had never heard of them before. With best wishes, E. G. K.

PATRICK KIRLEY.

Friday night, June 29, the death angel with its sable mantle spread gloom and sorrow when it called Patrick Kirley, the retired carriage manufacturer, at the family home at Maplewood, on the Eighteenth. Kirley, a dignified, well-known figure for him a wide circle of friends. He was a member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and the Catholic Orphan Society and had been always ready to assist the poor. He was one of the first subscribers to the Irish American, the Kentucky Irish American. Surviving him are four daughters, Mrs. R. J. Higgins, Mrs. John Holland, Mrs. Anthony Norton and Miss Mary Kirley, and two sons, Capt. John Kirley, head of the Louisville Salvage Corps, and William Kirley, an insurance man. Funeral services were conducted Monday morning at St. George's church, attended by many old friends and associates.

FIFTY-SIX YEARS A PRIEST.

Cardinal Gibbons celebrated the fifty-sixth anniversary of his ordination to the Catholic priesthood on Saturday at Baltimore. He said mass in the Cathedral and then returned to his mansion for breakfast and a quiet day. Messages of congratulation came to him from many directions, but he had made it clear he favored no more personal celebrations, and there were few callers. He was ordained at the Cathedral by Archbishop Keenrick on June 30, 1861. He was appointed an assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church. He made himself popular with his parishioners and his ability made a deep impression upon the prelates of the church. Six years ago he consented to a celebration in his honor to mark his golden jubilee in the priesthood and silver jubilee as Cardinal. Since then he has avoided any suggestion of formality in connection with his birthdays or anniversaries.

FATHER O'MAHONEY GUEST.

The Rev. Father J. P. O'Mahoney, assistant rector of the Cathedral of the Assumption, who was in Washington for several days in the interest of Catholic welfare work among the soldiers and sailors, was a guest at the exercises incident to the unveiling of the Robert Emmet statue at the National Museum on Thursday. Father O'Mahoney, who is a director of the Associated Charities of Louisville, left for Newark, N. J., and a visit to friends in the East.

RECORD CLASS.

On a recent Sunday in Milwaukee His Grace Archbishop Messmer administered the sacrament of confirmation to the largest class of his episcopate. There were 636 children confirmed at St. Joseph's church.

DEPLORABLE

That the European War Should Be Used as Cloak For Bigotry.

Repeated Attempts to Throw Suspicion Upon Clergy Prove Futile.

Fathers Never Guilty of Disloyalty to the Land of Their Adoption.

MALICIOUS CHARGES UNFOUNDED

A most deplorable effect of the war among practically all the nations engaged is the sinister purpose which it has been made to serve under the guise of patriotism. In France and Italy there were repeated attempts made by the anti-clericals to throw suspicion on the clergy of the respective countries and to draw down upon them public wrath and contempt. Yet, even in Germany and Austria priests were arrested under the suspicion of being spies. The most recent of these machinations to discredit the Catholic clergy is revealed in a pamphlet entitled "The German Jesuit Fathers of Bombay, by an Englishman Who Knows Them." This Englishman is no other than the well-known Rev. Ernest Hull, S. J., editor of the Bombay Examiner. Quite naturally, he tells us, the fear of German spies and German sympathizers assumed formidable proportions in all countries under English domination. So also in India, the prize colony of the English empire. But that this fear and suspicion should be directed against men who had labored so long and so unselfishly for the genuine interests of India would come as a surprise did not the crudity of the methods employed in awakening this fear and suspicion give reason for suspecting its purity and disinterestedness of motive.

Subjecting the long years of service rendered to the cause of education and the splendid missionary record of the German Jesuits in the archdiocese of Bombay to a most rigorous and careful analysis, Father Hull points out with strong logic and vigor the great merits of these men who expatriated themselves to create the highest cause of humanity. In a searching review of various public utterances made by various Jesuit teachers and missionaries and wrongly construed the author shows that never, nor on any occasion, were the Jesuits ever a community or as individuals, guilty of disloyalty to the land of their adoption. In the second part of the able pamphlet the author analyzes certain specific charges made against the fathers. Among others he tells us: "There was the famous case of a letter to Sir Robert Veyrough from a friend holding a responsible position in Bombay" containing the following words: "We allow Germans to teach in our schools. They say we are servants of no country, we are servants of God." To my knowledge Indian children come from the schools slinking in each British cruiser ship, and saying German conquer the world and civilization must conquer. The charge, so serious in itself, seemed to call for some sort of investigation and defense. The fathers referred the matter to the Government and were advised to drop the matter, evidence sufficient that it was deemed unfounded and foolish. Various other equally groundless and malicious charges are enumerated and analyzed.

After summing up the charges and their valuation when submitted to careful criticism we are told that: "To crown all, quite recently a new turn has been given the movement by what looks like an enlistment of the odium theologorum or sectarian jealousy. An English missionary writing to the Madras Mail undertakes to say that the total internment and ultimate expulsion of all German missionaries will have the whole-hearted support of the grateful body of other missionaries in India. The engineering of a combined endeavor among Protestant missionary bodies, to get rid of a section of the Catholic clergy whom they can not but regard as important rivals in the field of missionary work, calculated to add intensity to the popular agitation and to introduce a new feature of jeopardy into the case as far as German Catholic missionaries are concerned."

This attempt to make patriotism serve the basest of purposes can not but be instructive for us, for volatile and easily engineered and swayed as is public opinion among us, we never know when it will serve the purpose of our foes to seek the undoing of Catholic work by an appeal to the prejudice of the masses, cloaked under the innocent guise of national virtue. CLERICAL CHANGES.

The Right Rev. Bishop Chartland has made announcement of the following appointments for the Indianapolis diocese, which became effective Thursday: Rev. Clement Butler, recently ordained, to be assistant at St. Augustine's church in Jeffersonville, taking the place of Father Bernard Sheridan, who was transferred to St. John's in Indianapolis. Rev. Bernard H. Redford, assistant at St. Mary's church, New Albany, goes to St. John's, Clark county, and is succeeded by Rev. Charles Riebelthaler, recently ordained. Rev. Father Hoang, of St. John's, comes to St. Edward's Hospital, New Albany, taking the place of Father Kohlmann, who has been obliged to again go to the Southwest for his health.

RECENT DEATHS.

By the death of John Greene, 739 South Sixteenth street, whose funeral was held Sunday afternoon, St. Peter's church lost another of its old and respected members. He was born seventy-two years ago and had spent his many years in the cigar-making business. Surviving him are his widow and one son, Gus Greene and four daughters, Misses Mary and Elizabeth Greene, Mrs. Frank Link and Mrs. Henry Deeken.

The last solemn rites over the remains of Mrs. Kate Fitzgerald were held Sunday afternoon at the Cathedral, of which she had been a life-long member. She was the wife of James Fitzgerald and the mother of Mrs. W. H. Selbert, 405 South Twenty-eighth street; Mrs. J. G. Hardy and Miss Mary Fitzgerald. Two sisters, Misses Annie and Nora Gannon, and a brother, Michael Gannon, also survive her.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Stein, aged seventy, were held Saturday morning at St. Martin's church, where for many years she was a devoted communicant. She leaves two sons, Detective Peter Stein and Matthew Stein, four daughters, Mrs. Henry E. Rusterholtz, of Chicago; Mrs. Ernest Hall, Mrs. Walter Orrill and Mrs. Richard Edwards, and four brothers, Matthew, Carl, Theodore and William Reis.

Following an illness of two weeks, Mrs. Mary Weber Enrich, beloved wife of Charles Enrich and a woman of many fine characteristics, died at the family home, 2119 South Preston street. She is survived by her husband, six sons, Emanuel, Claude, Merit, Joseph, John and Dr. William H. Enrich, and a daughter, Mrs. George Wood. She was a member of Holy Trinity church and several church societies. Her funeral took place Monday morning.

With requiem high mass Thursday morning the funeral of Edward A. McMahon, 1533 West Broadway, was held from the Sacred Heart church. Rev. Father Walsh conducted the services. Deceased was twenty-eight years old and was a member of the Hannan Sewer Pipe Company. Mourning his death are his widow, one child, his mother, four brothers, John, James, Jeff and Joseph McMahon, and three sisters, Misses Ella, Mary and Catherine McMahon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Celia Ballman, wife of Joseph Ballman, for many years a member of the Louisville Salvage Corps, were conducted Thursday morning at St. Patrick's church, of which she was a devout member. Her death occurred Monday night at St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, where several weeks ago she underwent a surgical operation for appendicitis. Besides her husband she leaves three daughters and five sons, Joseph, Earl, Sylvester, William and Ben Ballman.

John Clehan, born in Ireland seventy-two years ago but for half a century a resident of Jeffersonville, passed peacefully away after a short illness at his home, 809 East Seventh street. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Susan Clehan; two sons, John Clehan and James Clehan, and two daughters, Miss Mamie Clehan and Miss Susie Clehan, all of Jeffersonville. He was a member of the Catholic Knights of America and St. Augustine's church, from where the funeral was held Saturday morning.

All that was mortal of the late Louis H. Wolting was laid to rest Wednesday morning, after requiem high mass at Holy Cross church. Mr. Wolting was thirty-nine years old and had long been a trusted salesman for the Hannan Pipe Company, and his loyalty to his company was commensurate with his loyalty to his church, his home and his country. Deceased is mourned by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Wolting, Sr., 683 South Thirty-ninth street; a brother, Henry N. Wolting, Jr., and four sisters, Mrs. John Toke, Mrs. O. Melton, of Hammond, Ind.; Mrs. Henry Hensel and Mrs. Edwin Burckle.

UNVEIL EMMET STATUE.

A life-size bronze statue of Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot and martyr, was unveiled at Washington on Thursday of last week in the rotunda of the National Museum. President Wilson was present and the statue was dedicated by Judge Victor J. Dowling, of New York, and Senator Phelan, of California. Miss Alice O'Gorman, daughter of the former Senator from New York, unveiled the statue. It was accepted for the museum by Secretary Walcott, of the Smithsonian Institution. The big audience stood and cheered when John McCormack sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

MILLION FOR ACADEMY.

Chicago Catholics are delighted to learn that work on a new $1,000,000 school for Catholic young women will soon begin in River Forest. The Dominican nuns of St. Clara Convent, Siaslaw, Wis., have determined to remove their famous institution to Chicago, and Mother Mary Samuel, Superior General, is now there to arrange for the erection of the new building.

NOTABLE CONVERT.

Bernard Holland, one of the most brilliant British writers, a contributor to the Outlook, Independent and North American Review, has become a Catholic. His father was chaplain to Queen Victoria and King Edward VII.

POLITICAL

Control Sought Through Prohibition by Bryan and His Followers.

Local Republicans Fearing Discontent Because of Maas Throwdown.

Chilton and Searcy Not in Touch With Candidacy of Nonline Smith.

SEVERAL LEGISLATIVE CONTESTS

William Jennings Bryan was in our midst on the Glorious Fourth, but thanks to the failure of the L. and N. to make connections the grape juice orator was unable to arrange a lecture on his favorite topic—prohibition. Many Democrats and others who have never had a warm spot in their heart for the L. and N. said their first good word for that corporation when it blocked Bryan's appearance here, intentionally or unintentionally. However, the Chautauqua favorite told the people of Kentucky through the Republican press that Kentucky will go dry by 100,000 majority, but didn't explain why McChesney, who was a prohibitionist candidate, was decisively beaten only a few years ago. Bryan also said that those who favor prohibition should insist on the nomination of candidates who favor prohibition, thus outlining his plans for political control through the hypocrisy of prohibition. Significant with this, among his callers Wednesday night, were Percy Hall, who is for prohibition, but strange to say fell all over himself in trying to land a job as Collector of Internal Revenue, which is surprising when it is taken into consideration that he has to receive and handle money for an industry he is trying to put out of business.

Another of Bryan's callers was our own distinguished and much-admired Col. Pat Callahan, Vice President of the Forward League, an organization of prohibitionists posing as Democrats and wanting control of that party. The third distinguished caller, as chronicled by the Republican press, was Frank Greene, of Carrollton, whose only claim to fame in the last Legislature was that he opposed the tax on every measure, good or bad. The future of the Democratic party would certainly look pretty dark and gloomy to the average Democrat if the party's affairs were handled by Bryan, Haly, Beckmann, Callahan and Greene, all of whom are only prohibitionists of short standing and peculiarly all of whom are using prohibition as a political asset. As the New York World said the other day: "The prohibition lobbyists at Washington care nothing about the future of the country, they only care to see their own party in power and their sole idea being to advance prohibition for political or pecuniary profit." These lobbyists can be divided into two classes, one being broken down or miffed preachers who couldn't make a living preaching the gospel, who are only a class composed of those who seek political preferment through prohibition.

The Louisville Herald has been telling the public all about the perfect harmony in local Republican ranks, but so far has failed to explain why John Maas' followers wouldn't let him accept the nomination for County Commissioner. Maas' friends state that he was deliberately jobbed out of the nomination for Mayor after having it called down, so to speak, and all because of the fact that he was a German-American. They refused to let him even consider accepting the nomination for Commissioner and playing second fiddle to George Weinsinger Smith, on whom the anti-Germans united, and the ticket selected is noted for the absence of Maas' friends and supporters who were Axton's backers four years ago. In addition the local control of Chilton and Searcy has been given a death blow, only saving the County Attorneyship nomination for Chilton, while their bosom friend, W. E. Ross, is forced to fight it out with ex-Representative Dover for the nomination for Sheriff. As one of the anti-Chilton-Searcy men put it the other day, that even in the event the Republican ticket was elected Smith and his close friends would turn a deaf ear to any pleadings of the former bosses. As for the Maas followers, they are sulking in their tents and say they are through with this campaign.

The Democratic entry list which closed the other day shows some stirring primary contests and a ticket for the General Council especially strong. In the Mayor's race Charley Cronan will have easy sailing. Brumleve's candidacy falling flat after the grand jury's report, and its report will be the report of the Democratic voters—nothing doing for Brumleve. In the opinion of many Brumleve's random charges have hurt him in his camp who have shown some strength, among them being Hollis for County Clerk and Early for Clerk of the Police Court, both of whom have been going fast.

The Legislative contests are beginning to attract active campaign for the first time. In the county districts John Drecher seems to be leading; in the First ward George Barrett must be given the call, and it is rumored that his opponent doesn't even live in the district. Councilman Ben Beckmann and Adam Spain are going at it hammer and tongs in the Forty-sixth district; "Billy" Kuh looks like a winner in the Forty-seventh. In the Forty-eighth Headley, McCullough and Overstreet are the contestants. In the Forty-ninth Will McDonough is already in, while Dr. Lewis Ryans, the Republican candidate in the Fifteenth, appears the winner. In the Fifty-first the same situation occurs as in the Forty-sixth, a Councilman opposing the present Representative, Tom Dolan against Will Duffy.

There is only one fly in the ointment on the Democratic side and that is in the Sheriff's race and, judging from the many comments on the article appearing in the Kentucky Irish American, which suggested McNally's withdrawal in the interest of harmony, a popular chord was struck. Democratic candidates, police officers and schoolmen, firemen, city and county employees and other Democrats all approve of the suggestion, the men who are on the pay-roll saying that asking them to nominate a Haly-Beckmann selection for Sheriff savors of the Japanese custom of hat-kari, asking one to commit suicide, his nomination being sure to jeopardize the ticket's chances in November, if not actually insuring its defeat.

APPLIED SOCIALISM.

If it were not that Arthur Brisbane, more commonly known as "the world's highest salaried editorial writer," is taken quite seriously in many quarters, we would apologize for any reference to his latest brief for Socialism. Mr. Brisbane in advocating a limit on the amount of a day's work declares it little short of criminal to allow any one man to work a longer day than that of his fellow. No one can take exception to legislation that would limit the number of hours that shall constitute a full day's work. The average man can not work his best under ordinary conditions if required to work more than a specified number of hours, the number depending upon the nature of his work. To put a penalty on the man that would work more than the specified number of hours is a gross invasion of personal liberty. It penalizes the man of more than average strength or industry which he is willing to use for his own betterment. All men are not made from the same mold. God has created some the mental and physical superior of others. It is not criminal that they be permitted to use those superior powers. Some men have more thrift than others. They shall prevent them from using that industry and thrift? The ambitious, energetic, strong man would be branded as a menace to his kind. Some labor leaders may hail this as a boon to the laboring man. It would be a boon to the man who would cripple his brother, who would restrain him from advancing himself by the proper use of the talents with which God has blessed him. The idea is born of a Socialist philosophy which resents all ambition on the part of men to rise above the common level. It is destructive of that strong individualism which has made our country so great. It runs counter to man as God made him, counter to the very essence of our common humanity.

SUCCESS FOR ORPHANS.

The annual Fourth of July celebration and picnic of the Catholic Orphan Society on the grounds of the St. Vincent Home was the most successful yet held. From early morn till evening people were coming and going, not less than 15,000 enjoying the fête. The programme was interspersed with athletic contests, novelty shows and a grand band raising, which was a reading of the Declaration of Independence. In the evening there was a spectacular display of fireworks and the grounds were filled to overflowing. Particularly pleasing was the large number of clergy present, and the many visitors from outside the city. The net results were not totaled when this issue was closed, but it is known that the receipts almost doubled those of any former year, attesting the good work of President Murphy and the officers and committees.

SUMMER SERVICES.

The masses at the Sacred Heart church have been changed for the summer, the first being at 9:30 and the high mass at 10:30, one hour earlier than heretofore. Until September the late mass on Sunday at St. Louis Bertrand church will be a low mass, followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The masses will be at 6:30, 7:30, 8 and 10:30. Until fall there will be no evening services.

During the summer months on Sunday at St. James church the mass at 10 o'clock will be low mass, followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament immediately following. The choir sings during the mass and also for the benediction. There will be no vespers until September.

SISTER'S SILVER JUBILEE.

Saturday morning Sister Eberhard, of St. Edward's Hospital, New Albany, celebrated her silver jubilee. The celebration began with the jubilee high mass in the hospital chapel, sung by the Rev. Father John A. Kohlman. Edmund Scharf rendered a solo on the violin and antiphons were sung by a trio composed of Mrs. Theodore Moritz and her daughters, Misses Helen and Dorothy Moritz. Sister Eberhard was educated at Columbus, Neb., her birthplace, and received her training as a Sister of St. Francis, the order operating a hospital at Omaha. In 1893 she came to New Albany, where she has been for twenty-five years.

STANDARDS

That Labor Would Incorporate in Peace Treaties Terminating the War.

Resolutions Now Before Various International Unions and Federations.

Deal With Rights to Work and Coalition, Insurance and Hours.

PROVIDES FOR BIG COMMISSION

A labor conference of delegates representing the trade-union federations of England, Italy, Belgium and France was held at Leeds, England, July 1, 1916. It was called as the result of a preliminary conference of delegates representing these federations held in Paris, which paved the way for its work by calling upon the French Federation to draft a series of minimum labor standards which it was desired to incorporate in the final peace treaties which would terminate the war. At the Leeds conference the French draft of minimum standards was modified and adopted. It should be noted that these resolutions are now before the various international unions and federations affiliated with the international organization of labor, that they may give expression to their attitude toward them.

The conference declared that the peace treaty which will terminate the present war and will give to the nations political and economic independence, should also insure to the working class of all countries a minimum of guarantees of a moral as well as of material kind concerning the right of coalition, emigration, social insurance, hours of labor, hygiene and protection of labor, in order to secure them against the attacks of international capitalist competition.

Every workman, wherever he is employed, should enjoy all the trade-union rights which the native workman enjoys, particularly the right to participate in the administration of his union. No workman should be expelled on account of his trade-unionist activities. No alien workman should be paid a lower rate of wages than the normal or prevailing rates of wages, or be made to work under worse conditions than those prevailing in the same locality or district for workers of the same trade or the same specialty.

The migrations of workmen shall be organized and based on national labor exchanges. There should be in every country a special commission on emigration and immigration, consisting of representatives of the Government and of the organizations of employers and workers of the country. The recruiting of workmen in a foreign country should only be permitted if the commissions of the interested countries, whose duty it is to examine into the question as to whether the demand for and the extent of such recruitments correspond with the needs of an industry or a district, and whether the labor contracts are in full conformity with the above-mentioned conditions of labor and the rate of wages, have favorably reported. The recruiting of migrants should be under the control of the labor organizations of the country of emigration. The execution of the labor contracts should be under the control of the labor organizations of the country of immigration. In case of accidents, workmen and their relatives, without distinction of nationality and domicile, shall be legally entitled to the same compensation as the native workmen. Countries which have not yet enacted insurance laws regarding sickness, invalidity, old age and unemployment should pledge themselves to do so within the shortest period. Pending the introduction of sickness insurance, diseases caused by the exercise of a trade should be regarded as accidents entitled to compensation.

Children under fourteen years of age should not be permitted to leave school and engaged as wage-workers in industrial, commercial and agricultural labor. Female persons and juveniles under sixteen years of age shall be prohibited from working at night work or in factories of continuous operation. A weekly rest, i. e., complete cessation of work, of one and a half days shall be compulsory. It shall be fixed for Sundays and Saturday afternoons, unless there exist exceptional regulations. For all workers a day's work must not exceed ten hours. In mines and factories of continuous operation and unhealthy industries the maximum workday shall be eight hours.

An international commission for the purpose of supervising the application of the laws concerning social insurance, labor migrations, hours of labor, hygiene and accident prevention shall be instructed to report upon all questions and grievances submitted. On the demand of one of the parties any point of conflict shall be submitted to an international court of arbitration.

It shall likewise be the duty of this commission to help in the preparations for the organization of future conferences which the governments of the various countries may convocate for the purpose of amending and developing labor legislation.

WHERE WE STAND.

The Kentucky Irish American has always advocated the lesson learned from the little catechism, "Eat when hungry, drink when dry, but never eat nor drink too much," else you are guilty of the sin of gluttony. And for those who have criticised us we would respectfully quote the reply of Cardinal Gibbons when asked to comment on the "bone dry" amendment to the food control bill. It is hoped this will prove enlightening to the Forward Leaguers and the hungry sheet emanating from the comeback in the little Western New York village. The Cardinal said:

I do not believe in the national prohibition of light wines and beer and I am of opinion that such a law could not be enforced. I am opposed to any State-wide or nation-wide prohibition measure. A law of this kind interferes with the personal liberty and rights of the people and creates hypocrisy on the part of the public. If the people of any particular county district find conditions such that to have local option would mean the betterment of the community, then they should close the saloons in that district. Having prohibition in large cities is a bad thing. It is practically impossible of enforcement. The history of the world demonstrates the fact that the people have and always will indulge in intoxicants irrespective of any restraining power that it is attempted to saddle upon them.

THEN GOD HELP.

Many articles have been appearing in the papers that reflect upon the character and morals of our soldiers, in which the writers assert that the men in the training camps are not capable of taking care of their own morals. This implies one who knows to answer these fatherly people and say that were it not for the fact that their mental caliber is such that their being at liberty can do no harm to the country at large he would call their statements to the attention of one of the Federal Judges to pass upon. If the best blood of our country, which is represented in our officers' training camps, is unable to take care of itself in a moral sense without the interference of meddling civilians, then God help the common soldiers and our own "common people."

OUR FIGHTING MEN.

Two years ago a pacifist orator declared that a million men would spring to arms in a single night to defend the country if danger threatened it. That was only a dream. But more than half a million men have volunteered in the American army and navy during the period of less than three months that has elapsed since war was declared to exist. The army, navy and National Guard represented an aggregate strength of little more than 300,000 men when the war resolution was adopted. Today between 700,000 and 800,000 are enrolled in the various branches of the fighting service and the great majority of them are armed, equipped and under training. They will be joined at the end of the summer by nearly 1,000,000 men, selected for the new national army from the millions registered for war. That is a good record.

LEAVE OF LOBBY?

The New York World notes that for the first time in our history a President of the United States has appealed to the chief of the lobby to allow the passage of "a bill of vital consequences to the safety and defense of the nation." In this instance the lobby is known as the Legislative Committee of the Anti-Saloon League, but it is none the less a lobby. It is made up to some extent of revered gentlemen who long ago found politics more congenial than religion and lobbying decidedly more profitable than preaching.

The food control bill, admittedly one of the most important of war measures, has been hopelessly obstructed by the demand of this Legislative Committee that nationwide prohibition be included in its scope. Except for the wiles and threats of this Legislative Committee the bill, carrying reasonable restrictions upon the liquor trade, would have been passed long ago. Unless both houses of Congress shall restore the measure to a semblance of its original form its enactment must be delayed indefinitely.

The prohibition lobby would like to have it appear that the contest at Washington is between righteness and sin, between water and whisky, between temperance and intemperance, between churches on one side and distilleries and breweries on the other, but that is not true. The real issue is between the frantic and arbitrary leaders of a social reform and the great mass of the people, who never have accepted that reform.

Illustrating the spirit in which the lobby undertook to force its will upon the American people in time of war, we quote here two sentences from a letter written by a reverend gentleman and printed in the World a few days ago:

If you are fighting Germany and the Kaiser, go ahead and don't bother with us. We are fighting hell and the devil and have no time for your puny little wars.

REAL HOME.

The magnum bonum of this life is the grace of God—to have faith and to pray. To that end the greatest current attribute, irrespective of what station one may occupy, the Catholic Union and Times advises, is to be truly loyal to one's own family.

The son and daughter who are loyal to the father and mother in turn will be blessed themselves. The good son will become a good husband, the good daughter an equally excellent wife, and the good, true and kindly husband and wife invoke and obtain God's blessing and fruition as the heads of a happy family.

There is one word, however, which spells ruin as a rule—it is talk. Gospel is a cheap fabric; it does not wear well. It is bad enough about third parties, but worse to man or woman who, as husband or wife, speaks unkindly of the other. The nearest approach to heaven on this earth is the home where virtue sits over the mantle. To have such a domicile, bear in mind, be loyal unto those of your circle. Never permit your tongue to pronounce a word save of joy and affection to or of those of your own.

The Hibernians and Knights of Columbus are each raising a fund of $1,000,000 for the benefit of Uncle Sam's soldiers and their dependents. How different from those alleged patriotic bodies who were so vociferous in support of the flag before war was declared, since when they have been evanescent.

Though only fifty miles from France, vary England has 3,000,000 men within her border and 350,000 regulars scattered over Ireland that were better used along the firing line. Does she expect from other nations both the money and the men for her fight?

The canards about the Red Cross did not mislead Catholics. The alarmist stories circulated were without any real foundation.

MONTIUS INTENTION PRAYER.

His Holiness Pope Benedict XV. has recommended "The Missions of the Levant" to the Apostleship of Prayer, as the general intention for the month of July. These are the missions which include the countries that have been made sacred to Catholicism by the life and labors of our Divine Lord, and by the sufferings of thousands of the faithful, who were persecuted and endured martyrdom because of their fidelity to God, Palestine, Egypt, Syria, Armenia! What a flood of Catholic associations are wrapped up in those names. How glorious is the Catholic history of the first four centuries of the Christian era in those far distant places! Therefore the Holy Father, whose paternal heart bleeds for his persecuted children, appeals to Catholics throughout the world to join him in prayer for the relief of our poor brethren in the Levant and for the success of the missions in that part of the world.

CHEERED THEIR CHAPLAIN.

Through the efforts of Major Edward H. Fitzgerald, U. S. A. chaplain, the several thousand soldiers stationed at Fort Douglas, near Salt Lake City, now have a downtown club. Father Fitzgerald, who is located at the war prison barracks of the local army post, worked hard to get the citizens of Salt Lake interested in the project of supplying the enlisted men with a place of recreation which would have the proper environments, and success has crowned his efforts. When the club was opened by acting Gov. Bennion and Mayor Ferry it was found to be well supplied with everything that would go to make up a high-class officers' club. The men were enthusiastic and gave three lusty cheers and a tiger for Major Fitzgerald, the popular Catholic chaplain.

STRAIGHTEN SHOULDERS.

An excellent exercise to straighten round shoulders—good for girls or women who have to sit a good deal—is performed by placing a thick stick or wand across the back and letting it run out through the bent elbows. The arms are bent so that the hands rest on the chest. The back and shoulders are pressed back and down and walk about the room in this way for five or ten minutes.

LITTLE JIMMIE.

About sixty years ago could be seen in a corn-chandler's shop in New Orleans a boy employed in labeling sacks which had been filled with corn. Although poor and sickly in appearance he was so well liked by his employer and fellow-workers as to be generally called "agreeable Little Jimmie." He was the second son of an Irish family, and so poor were his parents that in order to increase the family income they were obliged to take him from school at an early age and send him to work. Jimmie grew and continued marking the sacks of corn, till one day his serious and pleasing manner attracted the attention of Father Duffo, a friend of his employer.

"How old are you, Jimmie?"
"Eighteen years, father."
"What do you do here?"
"As you see, I mark those sacks of corn, in order to earn some money to help my family along."
"You could not do better, my child, than help your parents, but could do it in some other way. Do you go to school? How do you pass your evenings?"

Alas! The thought of studying in the evening had never entered Jimmie's head; but after his conversation he began to continue his studies with Father Duffo, although he had almost forgotten even the little he had previously learned. And what did he accomplish? After a while he became a self-made man, then bachelor of arts, then priest, then Bishop, then Archbishop, and today he is Cardinal Gibbons—an American prelate who exercises considerable influence, particularly among the working classes, who are justly proud of this man who came from their ranks.

This Prince of the church has preserved the same agreeable manner which distinguished him in his youth, and although he dislikes public meetings he does not hesitate debating any question which might benefit humanity. Some years ago an old man presented himself at the doors of the Cardinal at Baltimore, and with tears in his eyes asked to see his little employee.

"Do you wish to see Cardinal Gibbons?" he was asked.
"Call him Cardinal Gibbons as much as you will," he replied, "but to me he shall always be my Jimmie."

His Eminence at once recognized his former employer, and both shed tears of emotion and joy.

IRISH HERO PRIEST.

Prof. Delmer, the Australian, who recently returned from Berlin, where he had been detained since the war began, tells this story of a patriotic Irish priest:

"In the Irish prisoners' camp at Limburg the Germans even tried to use a priest as their tool, after Roger Casement had exhausted his arts in trying to persuade the men to desert the British flag. Father Crotty, whom I look upon as one of the heroes of the war, was asked by the Germans if he would speak a word of authority to the waverers at mass.

"Men of Connaught," said Father Crotty from the altar, "the German Emperor wants you to fight on his side. Some people have been telling you it is the proper thing for you to do. I have been asked to tell you the same. But I was sent to you by His Holiness the Pope not to talk politics to you nor to mislead you, nor to be procurer for any King or Kaiser on earth, but to tell you in the name of God and the Holy Church what is good and right for men to do. As a priest of God I tell you that it is your duty as good Catholics to keep the oaths you have taken and be

FUNCTION OF MODESTY.

Modesty is to the virtue of purity what a fortification is to a besieged city. As long as the fort holds out the city is secure, but when the fort is captured by the enemy the city will be forced to surrender. In the same way maidenly modesty protects female purity, writes Father Tobin in the Guardian, and this explains the plea which the church makes in season and out of season for modesty in dress, modesty in demeanor and modesty in controlling the senses which are the channels through which so many temptations pass to the soul. In spite of the tendency to brand as sensational every reference to modern feminine fashion in dress, Catholic writers should not regard the subject as outside the sphere of their activity. Everything of human interest is a legitimate subject of discussion, and where saints like Jerome and Augustine and Popes like Leo XIII. and Pius X. lead writers of leading articles for the Catholic press should not hesitate to follow. But when the exponents of Catholic moral teaching take up the question of the moderation to be observed in feminine apparel, if the virtue of modesty is to perform its proper function, it must not be understood that they plead for dowdiness. If St. Francis de Sales wished his penitents to be becomingly attired we need have no hesitation in maintaining that elegance in dress is compatible with modesty. If Catholic prelates have seen fit to raise their voice in protest against the audacity which is so conspicuous in modern feminine attire it is because they perceive the tendency of Catholic women not only to ape the extreme eccentricities of fashion, but also to cultivate them in their church-going clothes, and for this reason the Catholic paper which is the helper of the church in the cause of moral conduct as well as sound teaching, expresses the hope that Catholic women will not single out the matter of dress to show their indocility to the church's wishes. Every Catholic woman should be an apostle of good taste, and these days of retrenchment not only in food, but in clothes, should be an appropriate season to start a new apostolate.

HARD SIGHT THIS.

A German woman and a prisoner of war, usually Russian, working side by side in the field is a common sight throughout Germany.

FOR WOMAN'S EYE.

Skirts will grow longer when autumn comes.

Georgette crepe has taken the place of chiffon.

Silk jersey has given way entirely to this woolen jersey.

The sport coat is the one successful rival of the sweater.

Vying with the basque sweater in popularity is the middle type.

Nothing is so smart on the white millan hat as white faille ribbon.

Satin dresses are stylishly trimmed with braids this season.

The use of lace this year is extreme, all sorts being in style.

Sport skirts of this year are not only plaited—they are com-plaited.

The striking feature of the season is the introduction of gingham and calico.

The best dressmakers are lending their talents to making exclusive gowns of calico.

Women's autumn clothes promise a dignity and seriousness that the men of the community will applaud. There is no display of legs nor undue showing of the ankles and shoulder.

TWIN CITY LEAGUE.

Last Sunday's results made no material difference in the Twin City League standing. The K. of C. beating the Champs in a 9 to 5 game, while their nearest rivals, Mackin, had easy sailing with the Orioles, winning 14 to 4. The Orioles had a hard time trimming the Bertrands, the score being 8 to 7, while the Imperials slaughtered Trinity 20 to 2. There were about 10,000 fans and fanettes at the games last Sunday and many approached to buy tickets for the big field day tomorrow refused to encourage amateur ball that much, but promised to face the box-office man tomorrow. The attraction tomorrow is the best ever furnished, a double-header being scheduled, the K. of C. to play a regularly scheduled game with Mackin, its nearest rival, and the other game to be between all-star games. In addition there will be a relay race, 100-yard dash and long distance throw. Mackin and K. of C. will have their regular lineups, while the All-Star clubs are as follows: Green—Boots, Murphy, manager; Haack or Temperly, c.; Henry or Showalter, p.; Murphy, s.; Voor, 1b.; Kircher, 2b.; Jackson, 3b.; Lovett, l. f.; Koehler, c. f.; Chenoweth, r. f. Reds—G. Weber, manager; O'Laughlin or Pontrich, c.; Finnegan or Ball, p.; Vogel, 1b.; E. Flynn, 2b.; O'Brien, 3b.; Curran, l. f.; Pontrich, r. f.; E. Harrigan, s.; Mazzoni, c. f. The officials are Felhoelter, Logsdon, Lally, McDermott, umpires; E. Steinbock, official scorer; Joseph Hanrahan, starter; John J. Barry, H. Willes, brink, E. Caffrey, judges. The standing to date:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
K. of C.	10	1	.909
Mackin	9	2	.818
Orioles	8	3	.727
Champions	6	5	.545
Hibernians	5	7	.417
Bertrands	2	9	.182
Trinity	0	11	.000

SHOULD RESIGN.

War, pestilence, famine or revolution could do no more harm to the great American game of baseball than the regime of Hickey with Umpires Murray and Johnstone to carry out his plans. The Louisville public has been led to believe from the press dispatches that Clymer and Wathen were marked for punishment by the pliers now in control of the American Association, but no one had the slightest idea that an umpire would go as far as Murray in making a false statement as he did on the Fourth of July. The baseball fan attends with the intention of seeing a contest not a handicap affair, and the surest way of keeping the fan away and killing baseball is for Hickey to allow Murray and Johnstone to continue their present tactics. All of the trouble can be charged directly to Tebeau, the smallest man in baseball, and about the best thing that could happen to the association would be his retirement or draft by the War Department. After today's game with Indianapolis the Colonels will go to Toledo and Columbus, then returning home to open up next Thursday with Minneapolis.

FERRY GAINS FAVOR.

The quality of the high class vaudeville presented twice daily in Fontaine Park Theater in no way lessens as the season grows. For next week Corbett, Shepard and Donovan will be seen occupying headline position. The trio of boys have excellent voices and their singing affair should meet with the approval of ferry patrons. Another important entertainer will be little Modesta Mortensen, the girl concert violinist. Miss Mortensen appeared for the first time in this city last season and she scored in a very pronounced manner. Comedy gymnasts and wrestlers will be found in the Wilson and Aubrey trio, while Dunlay and Merrill should be diverting in a comedy, singing and talking specialty. Sprague and McNeese round out the programme with a roller skating comedy, novelty. The refined cabaret recently inaugurated continues to attract a vast amount of attention and favorable comment, as does also the new restaurant, the dance pavilion and the swimming pool.

SECURE SCHOOL HONORS.

The annual Fourth of July celebration at the Jefferson monument attracted many people and children of the public schools. R. C. Ballard Thurston delivered a patriotic address and Miss Winifred Broderick, of the Girls' High School, read the Declaration of Independence. The prizes in the essay contest were awarded by Alfred Pirtle, the winners being Misses Winifred Broderick, Nancy Crawford, Lucille Dennes and Rose Rademaker, who each received $25.

HURT IN AUTO.

Word was received by Mrs. Joseph F. Voigt, 103 Pearl street, Jeffersonville, that her sister, Miss Helen McGrath, and her cousin, William Sullivan, of Sidney, Ohio, came near being killed at Lafayette, Ind., Wednesday night when a freight train on the Wabash railroad struck a touring car they were in. Miss McGrath suffered only slight injuries. Sullivan was badly hurt about the head and was taken to a hospital. The auto was badly mangled.

CONVENTION DELEGATES.

At the meeting of Trinity Council, Y. M. I., Monday evening delegates and alternates were elected to the Grand Council which convenes at Richmond, Ind., in August. The following were selected: Edward Mueller, James I. Kelly, Rev. Father Monaghan and Adam Schneider; alternates, B. J. Sandmann, J. C. Kirehdorfer, E. J. Cooney.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 4 will meet next Monday evening.

There are prospects for two new divisions in Nebraska.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Portland, Ore., has joined the Red Cross.

The County Board and picnic committee met last night at Division 3's hall.

Milwaukee Hibernians have secured Pabst Park for their annual reunion on August 4.

Every member should come out to Eclipse Park tomorrow and see some of our Hibernian stars in action.

Division 3 of St. Joseph, one of the live ones in Missouri, had a great initiation Monday night in St. Patrick's Hall.

The Ancient Order is growing rapidly in Missouri. Its membership is larger now than it has been for many years.

The Hibernians of Portland, Ore., are arranging to have the delegates visit their city when going to the national convention at San Francisco.

Division 3 of South Omaha had a crowded house at McCann's Hall when it had an entertainment for the members of the order and their families.

There will be some rivalry between Limerick and Portland in bringing the largest number to the Hibernian reunion at Phoenix Hill on July 30.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will have charge of the euchre and lotto to be given at the picnic. At their meeting last Sunday afternoon picnic tickets were distributed.

The Nebraska State Board has approved the action of the National Board in raising a million dollar fund for the care of families of members who will take part in the war.

The juvenile division of the Ladies' Auxiliary at Richmond, Ind., pleased their friends, who filled St. Mary's Hall, when they presented "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

The Hibernian reunion and picnic at Phoenix Hill on July 30 is the next big event here. County Board officers and committees will leave nothing undone to make this an event never to be forgotten.

The Catholic Tribune says new life seems to be instilled into the cause of Hibernianism, and it is well that such is the case, for there is no organization that has done more for church and country than that of the modest but sincere order.

No picnic ever given in Denver surpassed that of the Hibernians on the Fourth of July. Hon. John B. McGaurin was the orator, and a nice sum was raised for the million dollar fund for the families of those that go forth to fight for the United States.

EVENTS ON FOURTH.

Besides the signing of the Declaration of Independence there are many memorable events that have taken place on the Fourth of July.

On July 4, 1768, John Dickinson's famous "Liberty Song" was published in the Pennsylvania Chronicle and that same day sent to James Ott, a leader of the radicals in Massachusetts. It was widely published and had an unprecedented vogue throughout the colonies.

On July 4, 1774, a number of radicals met in a tavern in Savannah, Ga., and declared for independence of England.

Indiana attacked the settlement at Boonesboro Ky., July 4, 1777. The terrible Wyoming Valley (Pennsylvania) massacre was perpetrated July 4, 1778.

Cornwallis evacuated Williamsburg, Va., July 4, 1781.

On July 4, 1789, President Washington signed the first tariff law.

A regular United States mail stage, making weekly trips between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, was established July 4, 1804, and on the same day Nathaniel Hawthorne was born.

On this day, 1814, the battle of Chippewa was fought.

Work was begun on the Erie canal July 4, 1817.

The semi-centennial anniversary of the Declaration was a singularly notable day. On July 4, 1826, Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the famous document, and John Adams, both former Presidents of the United States, died within a few hours of each other. On this day Stephen G. Foster, composer of famous songs, was born, and Seth Boyden, the Edison of his day, discovered a method for making maltese castings.

On July 4, 1828, a stone was erected, marking the beginning of the construction of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Five years to the day after the death of Jefferson and Adams another famous former President, James Monroe, passed away.

The United States Patent Bureau was established July 4, 1836.

Independence day, 1845, is today rather a significant day. Texas, having seceded from Mexico, voted for annexation to the United States, and California declared her independence of Mexico. These events, especially the act of Texas, were the direct cause of our war with Mexico. The peace which closed the conflict was concluded July 4, 1848.

Barthold's statue, "Liberty Enlightening the World," presented to the United States by France July 4, 1883.
